Sun Line Chart

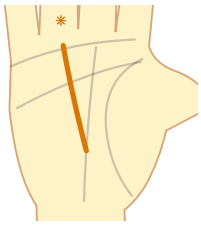

The sun (Apollo) line runs up the palm to the base of the ring finger. Cheiro read where it starts as where success comes from. Six starting points, his exact words from Palmistry for All (1916), and a reading for today. A tradition for fun and reflection, not a prediction.

From the life line

Cheiro: “It promises success from whatever the life is that is led, but not from ‘luck.’”

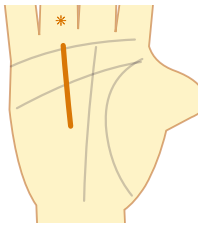

Today: Success you build from your own everyday life.

From the fate line

Cheiro: “It is a sure sign of recognition for the career adopted, but brought about by the personal effort of the subject.”

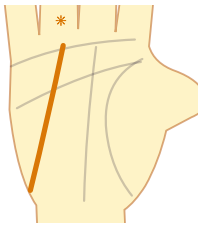

Today: Recognition for your work, earned by effort.

From the middle of the palm

Cheiro: “From the Plain of Mars, and not connected with the other lines, it foretells success after difficulties.”

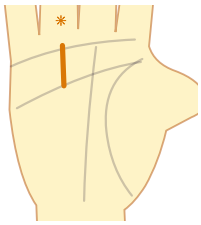

Today: Good things that come after a hard stretch.

From the Mount of the Moon

Cheiro: “Success is more a matter due to the caprice of others.”

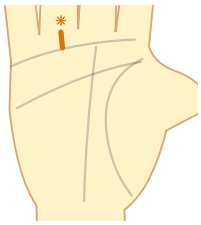

Today: Success with an audience: performers, speakers, makers who share their work.

From the head line

Cheiro: “The Sun Line gives success from the mental efforts and qualities, but not until after the middle of life is past.”

Today: Success through study and ideas, that grows with time.

From the heart line

Cheiro: “Success will come late in life in some way depending on, or through, the affections.”

Today: Happiness that comes through the people you love.

Indian Palmistry

“The line on mount of Apollo also shows a noted and brilliant mind, but the loss of a dear male friend, sometimes death of wife.”

Palmistry for All

“Without this line the life has no happiness, no sunshine, as it were, and even the greatest talents lie in darkness.”

What You Should Know About Palmistry

“A line moving up in the direction of Apollo forecasts artistic success--perhaps a reputation for carving roasts expertly.”

Many people have a faint sun line or none at all; that's normal. Palm creases form before birth. Quotes are exact, from the Project Gutenberg texts.
